Captain Mervin Parent, of Frankfort, quartermaster of the Second regiment, will do special duty in the commissary department.

Under a general order issued by Colonel Williams "soldiers in visiting the city if wearing a blouse must keep it closely buttoned. It without a blouse suspenders must be discarded and regulation shirt in blue or khaki worn. They must bear in mind they are guests of the city and ment is being held, comprises seventy acres. The grounds are hilly and have a natural drainage. There are many amusements, the summer theater, fresh water lake for swimming and boating, gun club grounds and dancing pavilion. The baseball park is in Wallace park but is enclosed.

There will be dances every night at the pavilion for the soldiers. Vaudeville starts tonight at the theater.

ENCAMPMENT NOTES.

The headquarters are arranged very attractively. There are twelve tents in a row forming the front and down each side extends three. Each tent is lighted by incandescent lights, and in Inspector General Gaines' tent is a telephone for the use of all the officers. The headquarters are located inside the gun club grounds about 200 feet northwest of the gun club house.

If pretty weather prevails several hundred people will go out tonight to see the camps and soldiers. The first dress parade is scheduled for 5 p. m. They will be held at this hour every day.

This afternoon the streets were alive with the boys in tan. They have captured Paducah and will hold it until September 2.

All barrels containing ice water were first paraphrased and sunk into the ground up to within a few inches of the faucets to prevent infection by drinking from the faucets. The lids are locked so a dipper cannot be

Major Gaines is an old lieutenant-colonel in the quartermaster's department of the regular army, and therefore is thoroughly familiar with his duties. The position is a responsible one and he is under a heavy bond. He has the reputation of being one of the best officers in the state guards.

There'll not be a dull day or night from now on until September 2.

Tomorrow the street car company will probably handle the largest business in its history. Thousands of people will visit the encampment grounds and thousands of colored people will celebrate the "Eighth of August" at the fair grounds and Rowlandtown park. The company will press every car into service that is in running condition.

The ball games in the afternoon will attract a big per cent of the soldiers. An officer remarked that not only the soldiers but the officers and Governor Beckham were enthusiastic baseball fans. Most certainly they will "root" for the Indians.

used. Surgeon General McCormack is taking every precaution to keep down sickness.

The darkies who do the cooking have their own tents and have to respect the sanitary laws as well as the soldiers.

Hospital headquarters are located behind the brick residence. There are fifteen men detailed for sanitary duties and four to wait on the sick and injured. An ambulance, pulled by two horses, is always ready for service.

The regimental camp is on the slope to the left of the gun club house. All the tents were pitched early this morning. In the center of each is a stove and the pipe takes the place of a center pole. Of course the stoves are for use in cold weather.

Quartermaster General Harry G. Tandy contracted for all the horses needed during the encampment, about 25.

The target range is not located on Grundy's hill, but on the hill of the J. R. Smith estate. Grundy's hill is on the left hand side of the road and to shoot into it would necessitate firing across the public road. There is no road between the Smith hill and the spot where the soldiers will stand.

Major Howard Gaines is in charge of the commissary department. All provisions purchased are hauled to this department where they are weighed and are paid for according to his weights and measurements.

from Inspector General Gaines, at Paducah:

"I report signal corps have completed all lines and commend Capt. Donaldson and his men for their fine work. All departments complete and camp ready. All heads of departments have performed very efficient services and consequently great credit is due them, which I am happy to join in bestowing while making this official report."

WEDDINGS.

Mr. Frank Clark, a popular and well known attache of the local I. C. paint shops, and Miss Mabel Downs, a well known and attractive young lady of the north side, will this afternoon be married.

Miss E. Bradford leaves this evening for her home in Lexington Tenn.

Mr. Clark resides on Broad street and Miss Downs on North Seventh. They secured a license this morning and originally intended marrying at the groom's house, but later changed their minds and decided to go to Lone Oak and have the knot tied. They are well-known and popular young people, the bride being a daughter of Mr. J. S. Downs, proprietor of the Downs stone and marble works.

Mr. Clark has been a resident of Paducah for a number of years and is a man of much energy and popularity.

tive citizens, men who have much at stake and who don't speak without reflection on the subject, show the sentiment of the majority of the citizens. Every man seen was of the opinion that Paducah should quarantine, and that quickly.

As one man said, "Why, these people are coming into Paducah now every day right direct from New Orleans. These people have been unable to stop off any place further south, yet Paducah takes them in. What do we know about them? Whether they might not come from an infected district of the city of New Orleans or not? It's no time for procrastinating or quibbling. The city should act before it is too late."

Surgeon General McCormack, who is at Camp Yeiser today, had a telephone message from Louisville stating that the quarantine at Fulton and Hickman had been raised by the state board of health. Dr. McCormack says the state board has a right to raise a quarantine with four hours' notice.

Will Ask Quarantine.

Mayor Yeiser, after consultation with a number of representative business men of the city, and at their suggestion, decided to request the city council tonight to quarantine the city. The mayor's attention was directed to the action of the state board of health in raising the quarantines of Fulton and Hickman but it is his opinion and the opinion of a number of the business men, that the state board of health can not prevent Paducah from taking steps to safeguard the health of the city.

Mrs. F. N. Gardner's Father Dead.

News was received today of the death at Huntington, West Va., of Mr. J. H. Kennet, father of Mrs. F. N. Gardner, of Paducah. He was 66 years old and died from a complication, leaving a wife, two sons and three daughters. Mr. F. N. Gardner left today to attend the funeral, which takes place tomorrow. Mrs. Gardner was already there.

A Tent Blown Down.

The wind last night blew down the large tent erected near the dancing pavilion at Wallace park, where ice cream and light refreshments were to be served during the encampment. The canvass was torn so badly that the owners had to purchase a new one today. This was the only damage done, the soldiers' tents withstanding the storm.

This afternoon the injunction suit of G. A. Jones against W. L. Bower and other to keep them from draining Blizzard pond is on trial in circuit court and will likely not be finished this afternoon.
